

mixed direction segment inside a line forced to split into new columns a long stretch of rl text before the switch that alone is already taller than one column a long lr switch segment that is also taller than one column on its own and a long stretch of rl text after the switch continuing further still